2009 Congressional Relations Leadership Conference

On March 13, 2009 WGR's Congressional Relations Task Force hosted its annual Congressional Relations Leadership Conference, "Taking Your Career to the Next Level" at the Washington Court Hotel in downtown DC. The conference allowed participants to network with a diverse group of government relations professionals from a multitude of industries, associations and non-profit organizations.

"Thanks for a day that was most enjoyable and energizing."

Expert panelists discussed a number of topics of importance to government relations professionals including communicating and building relationships with lawmakers and congressional staff, and the changing state of the media and its influence on policymakers. Participants also received insight from senior women in government relations and heard from keynote speaker Alfonso Lopez, Director of the Virginia Liaison Office. You won't want to miss next years' conference; we hope to see you there!

"This was my first WGR event, and I really found it tremendously helpful! The interactive networking session at the end of the day was especially useful."
